The delivered goods remain property of Oxford Instruments America, Inc. up to the complete payment.

The Seller imports the goods quoted from overseas and is liable for any import taxes due on the goods when imported. The Seller shall invoice the Purchaser for any incremental costs incurred by the Seller that arise from any tariff imposed on the goods on import. This shall be invoiced as a “tariff surcharge”. Any change between the current tariff rate and the rate prevailing on the date of import or the introduction of any reciprocal tariff rate shall require a corresponding adjustment to the tariff surcharge rate.

Oxford Instruments is committed to trading with integrity and honesty. If you have suspicions that a transaction involving Oxford Instruments may involve fraud, you can report this directly to our head office by sending an email setting out your concerns to compliance@oxinst.com.

If you have a genuine concern about an action or behaviour that is not consistent with Oxford Instruments’ ethical standards, you can report it anonymously by contacting our independent whistleblowing service provider, Safecall. The service is available from anywhere in the world, 24 hours a day, every day of the year, in over 175 languages and dialects. Further information and full contact details are available via this link: https://www.safecall.co.uk/en/clients/oxinst
